

Dr Jae-Mahn Shim

Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Korea University

Jae-Mahn Shim is Associate Professor of Sociology at Korea University. After he earned his PhD from the University of Chicago, he served on the sociology faculty at Stetson University (USA) and the University of Seoul. His works have been published in American Sociological Review, Social Science and Medicine, PLOS One, International Sociology, Medical Care, Health Policy and Planning, etc. He is interested in action/practice theory, medical culture, and mixed methods. Being motivated by and motivating action theory in sociology, he has been conducting a KNSF-funded 10-year research (2020-2030) on how Koreans (re-)articulate their lives at the individuality-sociality nexus in the spheres of health/medicine, religion, politics, economy, and intimacy. In the urgent, action theoretical response to Covid-19, he is finishing a book manuscript on how Koreans live through uncertainties during the recent crisis.
